Before concluding this report, I want to draw attention of honourable members to a report in Down to Earth (15 June '06)

"India is among the countries with large plantation of forestry. But loss of natural Forests is alarming. According to an estimate by the GO[1], during the two years 2001-2003, the area under natural forest here decreased by 2.6 million hectares(mha) per year, while that under plantation, forestry have increased by 2.9 turn only. This meant a net gain in forest cover of 300,000 ha annually

This indeed is a silver lining in the perspective in the dark picture of Forests in India. But in N.E. Region and particularly in Assam the forest coverage have been reduced and the density of forest here, in places have gone to dogs resulting in great inconvenience to the denizious of the Forest.

Honourable Members, it is expected that with your active help, the Society shall be able to take up plantation programmes in future.

This report shall be followed by the financial report of the Society during the financial year 2005-06 presented by the honouray Treasurer.

I conclude this report by extending my gratitude to all (whose names may not have been included in this report) who extended their helping hand to achive the goals of the Society.
